

Evolve Digital Level 5 – English 5

Vocabulary summary

Unit 11, Lesson 1

Describing consumer goods

authentic (adj.) – real, true, or what people say it is

"We initially thought the stamp we inherited from our uncle was a fake. But an expert examined it and confirmed it was authentic."

counterfeit (adj.) – made to look like the original of something, usually for dishonest purposes

"On a street near my office, there are several vendors who sell counterfeit products. Some of them almost look like the real thing."

deadly (adj.) – likely to cause death

"These chemicals are deadly. They are highly toxic, so you should be very careful when using them."

fake (adj.) – not real but made to look or seem real, usually to deceive people

"Anna made a fake mustache to tease Daniel, but he didn't mind. He's very proud of his."

fireproof (adj.) – unable to be damaged by fire; impossible or difficult to burn in a fire

"In his job, Nick has to work with fire and extremely hot things, so he is required to wear a fireproof suit."

genuine (adj.) – real and exactly what it appears to be

"When he bought it, the musician thought the violin was a genuine Stradivarius, but now he is not sure it is a real one."

illegal (adj.) – not allowed by law

"I don't know what it was, but he was doing something illegal and the police caught him."

imperfect (adj.) – damaged or not made correctly

"There is always an imperfect cookie in every batch, but I don't mind. They still taste great."

inferior (adj.) – not good, or not as good as someone or something else

"Pedro insists on growing his own tomatoes. He says the ones at the grocery store are inferior to those he can grow in his garden."

legal (adj.) – allowed by law

A: Are you sure it's OK to park here? We're going to be here for more than two hours.

B: It's fine. The parking limit is only for weekdays. It's Sunday, so it's perfectly legal for us to park here.

original (adj.) – made/produced first and not a copy

"In the past, we used to make copies of all the original documents our clients mailed us. Now most documents are sent electronically."

second-rate (adj.) – of bad quality; not very good

"He had bought a second-rate tire because it was cheaper, but it didn't last even six months. He really regretted the purchase."

sophisticated (adj.) – made with great skill

"He really appreciates sophisticated things. Almost everything he owns is very high quality and skillfully made."

Unit 11, Lesson 2

Degrees of truth

accurate (adj.) – correct, exact, and without any mistakes

"Inspectors measure the pieces several times to ensure their dimensions are accurate."

biased (adj.) – showing an unreasonable preference or dislike based on personal opinion

"I think my son is the cutest child in the world. Of course, as his mother, my opinion is probably more than a little biased."

controversial (adj.) – causing or likely to cause a lot of disagreement or discussion

"Nuclear power is often a controversial issue. Some consider it good, clean energy; some consider it to be too dangerous."

dishonest (adj.) – not honest and likely to lie or do something illegal

"Some young people don't realize that cheating on exams is dishonest behavior."

exaggerated (adj.) – seeming larger, more important, better, or worse than it really is

"When Mike got home from his fishing trip he told his family all about the fish he had caught. However, he greatly exaggerated its size and told them it was a huge fish."

false (adj.) – not true or correct

"I don't trust that newspaper. Most of the information they publish is incorrect, and some is actually false."

hoax (n.) – a trick in which someone tries to make people believe something that is not true

"The photo is clearly a hoax. Even my little brother knows how to insert a UFO in a picture using an image editor."

inaccurate (adj.) – not completely correct or exact

"The article had a lot of inaccurate information, so it took the editor a long time to correct everything."

misinformation (n.) – wrong information; information intended to deceive

"We have to be careful with misinformation on social media, especially as some of it can cause panic or make people do dangerous things."

misleading (adj.) – causing someone to believe something that is not true

A: Let's order from that new pizza place. They have free delivery.

B: Their free delivery is actually a little misleading. I ordered from them last week. Delivery is only free if you order more than five pizzas.

rumor (n.) – something a lot of people are talking about, although they do not know if it is true

"Karen told me that Javid and Amaal broke up. But I know that's not true. She's just spreading rumors."

suspicious (adj.) – making you feel that something may be untrue or wrong

"Frank is suspicious of nearly everything online. He doesn't believe anything he reads on the internet."

trustworthy (adj.) – someone that can be or deserves to be trusted

"We know we can rely on our servers working properly because the technicians in charge of them are very competent and trustworthy professionals."

urban legend (n.) – a story or statement that is not true but is often repeated, and believed by many to be true

A: Have you heard that urban legend about a man who flew on a chair lifted by balloons?

B: You know, that is actually a true story. A man called Larry Walters once attached weather balloons to a patio chair and was able to fly for 45 minutes on it!

white lie (n.) – a lie that is told to stop someone from being upset by the truth

"When she asked what I thought of her new outfit, I told a white lie and said it looked pretty interesting. I couldn't say it was horrible and upset her."