Grammar summary

Unit 12 Lesson 1: Adverbs with adjectives and adverbs

- You can modify an adjective with an adverb to give greater detail about the adjective. The adverb goes before the adjective.

Examples:

"I'm exceptionally skilled at geography."

"I'm not mathematically talented."

- You can modify an adverb with another adverb to give greater detail about the verb in the sentence. The adverb goes before the adverb it modifies.

Examples:

"Can you calculate percentages reasonably quickly?"

"I can navigate around town extremely easily."

Unit 12 Lesson 2: Making non-count nouns countable

- To make non-count nouns countable, use an appropriate unit of measurement.
- You need to learn which unit, or units, of measurement go with each non-count noun. These are some common units of measurement for different nouns:

Drinks

a bottle/glass of water

a carton/drop of milk

a cup of coffee

a gallon of juice

Food

a box of cereal

a bunch of bananas

a can of beans

a loaf of bread
a pound of meat

Other

an act of kindness/bravery
an article/an item/a piece of clothing
a bit of luck
a game of tennis/chess/baseball, etc.
a piece of advice
a piece/sheet of paper
a work of art
words of wisdom

- You can sometimes use the same unit of measurement with different nouns. A piece of is one of the most common (a piece of bread, a piece of fruit, a piece of cheese, a piece of advice, or a piece of news). Another common one is an item of (an item of clothing, an item of news, or an item of information).

Examples:

"I love music. Listening to a great piece of music in the morning can start your day well."

"The gym got a new piece of equipment. I need to learn how to use it!"

"I don't like coffee. Can I have a glass of water instead?"

"Don't start by the milk, I don't want any cartons of milk in the shot!"

"I lost my favorite item of clothing at the beach. With a bit of luck, someone might find it."

"I hate tennis! I can't think of anything worse than watching a game of tennis on my day off."

"All the pieces of advice he gave were useful."
